THE DECISION

Stellara delivery and pricing model

Full council · 7 advisors · 3 rounds

Monthly managed plans, a flat project fee plus small retainer, or a hybrid.

GO THE COUNCIL'S CALL

Monthly managed (A), one package, setup collected at signing, a 60-day performance guarantee, then 12 months. No builds before $5k/mo.

Confidence 8/10 · 1 endorse, 6 amend, 0 dissent

Scores

A	Monthly managed plans	RECOMMENDED	8.1
B	Flat build fee + small retainer		3.1
C	Hybrid: monthly default, builds on request		4.7

Each advisor scores every option from 1 to 10, weighted by how much their area matters to this decision.

Why the council landed here

- Codie Sanchez: Recurring contracts are what a buyer underwrites; past project fees are worth nothing.
- Naval Ravikant: A build eats about 25 of 40 monthly hours and pays once; the template pays on every client.
- Alex Hormozi: Waived setup is a price cut; take the cash and remove the risk with a guarantee.

Simulated advisors built from each person's public work. They are not the people and do not speak for them.

Watch out

Paul Graham: "A 12-month lock hides churn, and churn is the number you most need to see while you have zero paying clients."

For this to be right: Early clients stay only because of the contract.

What to do next

- This week: Write the delivery checklist and contract template; start the time log.
- Before Nov 30: Offer the three pilots these exact terms.
- By Jan 31: At least 1 paid setup from 5 discovery calls.
- Cheapest test: Offer the three pilots these exact terms before Nov 30.
- Kill it if: 0 of 5 discovery calls pay setup by Jan 31, or support over 2 hrs/week per client.

Where they fought

- Waive setup or collect it? Five seats waived it in Round 1; all moved after Hormozi and Buffett showed it breaks the never-discount rule. At signing won 5 to 2.
- 12-month lock or guarantee? Resolved as a 60-day guarantee, then 12 months, 5 to 2. Graham and Martell wanted no hard term.
- Hybrid (C): Buffett argued it at full strength and moved to A on Naval's hour math.
